INTERNATIONAL SOCIAL SCIENCE JOURNAL

Vol. XXXV, 1983

SUBJECT AND AUTHOR INDEX

Subjects

Africa, political engineering in 279–294
Algerian women in struggle for independence and reconstruction 703–717
Arms industry, role of scientific community in conversion of 185–199
Arms race, military research and development as cause or consequence of 25–45
Chile, women and politics in 825–837
China, quest for military technology self-reliance 99–123
China's strategy in foreign economic relations 455–467
Community psychology in search of new focus 339–351
Daily life, expression, subversion and self-expression in 353–365
Dependency theory 391–400
Development, and trade 425–440 policy and economics 507–516
Domestic inflation and exchange-rate movements, feedbacks between 517–534
Economic and social consequences of Nigerian militarization 125–139
Economic effects of a booming sector 441–454
Economics and development policy 507–516
Economy, women's participation in 659–682
Exchange-rate movements and domestic inflation, feedbacks between 517–534
Expression, subversion and self-expression in daily life 353–365
Folk-art, re-discovery and re-animation of, in industrial societies 201–211
Foreign economic relations, China's strategy in 455–467
Government, organizational culture of, myths, symbols and rituals 257–278
Heintz, Peter, 1920–1983 (Obituary) 559–560
India, quest for military technology self-reliance 99–123
women's work in 683–701
Industrial societies, folk-art in 201–211
'Latin-Americanism', psychological viability of 295–308
League of Women Voters, politics of 583–603
Malay women's movements 719–731
Militarization in Nigeria, economic and social consequences 125–139
Military expenditure and socio-economic development 81–97
Military research and development, and science policy 61–79 cause or consequence of arms race? 25–45 communities 7–23
effect on transfer of military technology to Third World 141–162

problems of measuring 47–59
Military technology, quest for self reliance, in India and China 99–123 effect of research and development on transfer to Third World 141–162
Monetarism, critique of Southern Cone 413–422
stagnation and other North American exports 493–506
Multinational version of social science 379–389
Multiple identities 309–321
Nigeria, militarization in 125–139
Nordic countries, women in the political life of 639–657
Organizational culture of government, myths, symbols and rituals 257–278
Policy formulation, use of social sciences for 367–377
Political engineering in Africa 279–294
Political geography and political science 549–558
Political life of the Nordic countries, women in 639–657
Political psychology, what is it? 221–235
Political science and political geography 549–558
Political socialization 237–256
Politics
alternative, of psychology 323–338 and women in Chile 825–837
of the League of Women Voters 585–603 study of, from the viewpoint of women 569–583
Post-military agenda for scientific community 163–184
Psychological viability of 'Latin-Americanism' 295–308
Psychology, alternative politics of 323–338
Quebecois setting, organizational culture in 257–278
Science policy and military research and development 61–79
Scientific community, post military agenda for 163–184 role in conversion of arms industry 185–199
Sexual mutilation, women's fight for abolition of 747–756
Socialist viewpoint on world economy 469–492
Social sciences and Third World, constraints on the United States 757–765 multinational version of 379–389
use for policy formulation 367–377
Socio-economic development and military expenditure 81–97
Soviet women in life of society 733–746
Southern Cone monetarism, critique of 413–422
Stagnation, monetarism and other North American exports 493–506
Sudan, aspects of women's political participation in 605–623
Third World, effect of research and development on transfer of military technology to 141–162 social science and, constraints on the United States 757–765
Trade and development 425–440
United States, constraints on social sciences and the Third World 757–765
Women('s)
Algerian, in the struggle for independence and reconstruction 703–717 and politics in Chile 825–837 fight for abolition of sexual mutilation 747–756 in the political life of the Nordic countries 639–657 movements, Malay 719–731
participation in the economy 659–682 political participation in Sudan 605–623
Soviet, in life of society 733–746 study of politics from the standpoint of 569–583 work in India 683–701
World economy
from the socialist viewpoint 469–492

global perspective on 535–547

theory and reality, introduction 409–411

Authors

ALBRECHT, Ulrich. Military R&D communities 7–23

ATAL, Yogesh. Using the social sciences for policy formation 367–377

BACHA, Edmar L. A critique of Southern Cone monetarism 413–423

BALL, Nicole. Military expenditure and socio-economic development 81–97

BENALLÈGUE, Nora. Algerian women in the struggle for independence and reconstruction 703–717

BLACK, Naomi. The politics of the League of Women Voters 585–603

BONDER, Gloria. The study of politics from the standpoint of women 569–583

BOULDING, Elise. A post-military agenda for the scientific community 163–184

BUSTAMANTE, Fernando. The effect of R&D on the transfer of military technology to the Third World 141–162

CHAKRAVARTY, Sukhamoy. Trade and development: some basic issues 425–440

CHOMBART DE LAUWE, Paul-Henry. Oppression, subversion and self-expression in daily life 353–365

CORDEN, W. M. The economic effects of a booming sector 441–454

DESHINGKAR, Giri. Military technology and the quest for self-reliance: India and China 99–123

DEUTSCH, Morton. What is political psychology? 221–236

DEVI, D. Radha. Women's work in India 683–701

DONG FURENG. Some problems concerning China's strategy in foreign economic relations 455–467

EL-BAKRI, Z. B. Aspects of women's political participation in Sudan 605–623

FARAMAZJAN, Rachik. The role of the scientific community in the conversion of the arms industry 185–199

GARABAGHI, Ninou K. A new approach to women's participation in the economy 639–682

GAREAU, Frederick H. The multinational version of social science 379–389

GRAUMANN, Carl F. On multiple identities 309–321

HAGUE, Sir Douglas. Discussion and conclusion: a global view of the world economy 535–547

HENRIQUEZ, Pedro. Beyond dependency theory 391–400

HIMMELWEIT, Hilde T. Political socialization 237–256

HORVAT, Branko. The world economy from the socialist viewpoint 469–492

KALDOR, Mary. Military R&D: cause or consequence of the arms race? 25–45

KAMEIR, E. M. Aspects of women's political participation in Sudan 605–623

KARIM, Wazir-jahan. Malay women's movements: leadership and processes of change 719–731

KASTLER, Alfred. Burdens of militarization: introduction 3–5

KIRKWOOD, Julieta. Women and politics in Chile 625–637

LAPONCE, J. A. Political science and political geography: neglected areas, areas for development 549–558

LATOUCHE, Daniel. The organizational culture of government: myths, symbols and rituals in a Quebecois setting 257–278

LENGYEL, Peter. Peter Heintz, 1920–1983 559–560
MAZRUI, Ali A. Political engineering in Africa 279–294
MOTROSHILOVA, Nelya V. Soviet women in the life of society: achievements and problems 733–746
NANDY, Ashis. Towards an alternative politics of psychology 323–338
NORDHAUS, William D. Reflections on monetarism, stagnation and other North American exports 493–506
NZIMIRO, Ikenna. Militarization in Nigeria: its economic and social consequences 125–139
ONITIRI, H. M. A. Economics and development policy 507–515
PREWITT, Kenneth. Social science and the Third World: constraints on the United States 757–765
RAVINDRAN, M. Women's work in India 683–701
SÁGI, Mária. Rediscovery and reanimation of folk-art in modern industrial societies 201–211
SALAZAR, José Miguel. On the psychological viability of 'Latin-Americanism' 295–308
SKARD, Torild. Women in the political life of the Nordic countries 639–657 SPAVENTA, Luigi. Feedbacks between exchange-rate movements and domestic inflation: vicious and not so virtuous cycles, old and new 517–534
THIAM, Awa. Women's fight for the abolition of sexual mutilation 747–756
URQUIDI, Victor. Introduction: The world economy: theory and reality 409–411
VARAS, Augusto. The effect of R&D on the transfer of military technology to the Third World 141–162
VASSAF, Gündüz Y. H. Community psychology in search of a new focus 339–351
VÄYRINEN, Raimo. Military R&D and science policy 61–79
VITANYI, Iván. Rediscovery and reanimation of folk-art in modern industrial societies 201–211
WÄNGBORG, Manne. Some problems of measuring military R&D 47–59